CREATIVE INNOVATION TEAM WORK

01 celebrating success.

Desiree Morrison was working at a restaurant and wanted to become a medical assistant. Sadly, the cost of the education and training required was out of her reach. Michigan Works! Southeast helped her overcome this obstacle by assisting with the cost of the Medical Assistant Training Program.

Upon completion of the training, Desiree was actively job searching while working at the restaurant full time. Her career advisor, Kristyn Nichelson, referred her to an opportunity with Jonesville Health Care where she interviewed and landed a better paying position there.
